

PRODUCTS

Agricen's products are innovative biocatalysts that enhance plant health and nutrition to help professionals in the agriculture, turf and ornamental industries get the most out of their plant nutrition programs. Designed to make existing plant nutrition practices more efficient and sustainable, our products maximize the availability of a broad range of nutrients from fertilizers and soil nutrient sources. They also facilitate nutrient uptake by plants, helping to improve plant performance, quality and yield.

Key Benefits:

- Increased nutrient availability and uptake
- Enhanced nutrient use efficiency
- Better root growth and development
- Improved plant performance
- Optimized crop yield potential

Agricen's products have been tested and proven in over 600 studies and counting - including field and greenhouse studies performed by major universities, the USDA and other third-parties. They consistently perform over a broad range of plant species, soil types, application methods and grower practices, including certified organic and conventional production practices.
